Maryland Parks Go Trash-Free As Of March 1

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has implemented a program designed to help eliminate unsightly litter, trash and debris from day-use areas of Maryland state parks and forests effective March 1, according to DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D.

All trash barrels, receptacles, and dumpsters have been removed from picnic and beach areas within the parks. Visitors will be asked to remove their own refuse in bags provided when they enter the park. Campgrounds will not be included in the program.

"The primary objective of the 'Trash-Free Parks' program," Dr. Brown said, "is to improve the visitor's recreational experience by eliminating unsightly trash and the odors, bees and animals that gather at trash receptacles." Dr. Brown added that the DNR wants to encourage visitors to recycle which in turn will help take some of the pressure off the landfills.

According to Rick Barton, DNR's director of the State Forest and Park Service, similar "carry in carry out" programs have been "extremely successful" in 21 other states. "Once people are introduced to the program they become very supportive and are pleased not to be confronted with overflowing trash containers, bees and raccoons which often carry diseases," Barton said.

Another benefit of this program, according to Barton, is that it will enable funds from already-strained budgets to be redirected to long-term maintenance within the parks and to education program development.

"We were somewhat skeptical at first," said William J. Hawkins, chief of Rhode Island Division of Parks, referring to the Rhode Island's "Carry In/Carry Out" program. "But after two years, I am happy to say Rhode Islanders and out-of-state visitors to our parks and beaches have enthusiastically participated in the program and it has been a tremendous success. Our parks and beaches have never been cleaner," Hawkins said.

The Maryland Environmental Service, the state's lead agency in promoting recycling and solid-waste reduction, is a sponsor of the "carry-out" bags and will be encouraging park visitors to recycle not only refuse but also used oil and antifreeze.

"One thing we hope to do through this new program," Dr. Brown explained, "is to foster an environmental responsibility for the forests and parks that will carry over to use of other resources. It's an idea whose time has come."

Right To Life Meeting Slated

Garrett County Right to Life will meet on Monday, March 8, at 7 p.m. at the Church of the Nazarene, 8th St., Oakland. Accident Home Base Headstart To Hold Drawing

The Accident Home Base Headstart Parent Group is having a 50/50 drawing. Tickets are available in Accident at the Headstart Center, Hartman's Amoco, Goehring's Restaurant, and from parents of the Headstart children.

Tickets will also be available through Kathy Millican at the Community Action Office in Oakland. This will be the last fundraiser this year for that group, according to a spokesperson.

The money they earn will be used to take the children to the Pittsburgh Zoo. The drawing will be held April 2 at 1 p.m. at the Accident

IGA. The holder of the winning ticket need not be present to win.

With roots in Iowa, Gish hasn't gone Hollywood

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

From very early on, Anna Beth Gish ("Mystic Pizza," "Coupe de Ville") knew exactly what she wanted to do. "It's funny," she says, "I have little remnants from when I was in the second or third grade. A couple of my teachers gave me little pieces of paper where I'd written, 'I want to be a movie star.' But maybe that's every childhood fantasy. I think I really knew that I loved the stage when I was 8 and started doing theater in community productions (in Cedar Falls, Iowa) and stuff. I fell in love with performing, and then I got the movie bug when I made my first movie (1986's "Desert Bloom"), and it was such an incredible experience.

This week, she is starring with Gena Rowlands and Chloe Webb in "Silent Cry," airing Monday, March 8, on NBC, about a group of American, British and Australian women who were interned by the Japanese during World War II.

"I play Hazel Hampton, who is a very innocent, idealistic young American who is over in Japan with her father, a colonel in the military," says Gish.

BY TONI REINHOLD

BOB'S BIO What can you tell me about Bob Barker's life? - B.C.G., Bucksport, Maine

Bob Barker

Veteran game-show host Bob Barker has won five Daytime Emmy Awards as the host of "The Price Is Right" and another one as the show's executive producer. Barker was born Dec. 12, 1923, in Darlington, Wash., and raised on the Hosobud Indian Reservation in South Dakota where his mother was a teacher after his father's death. He served as a Navy pilot during World War II, then graduated from Drury College in Springfield, Mo. where he began working in radio. He moved to Los Angeles, where he was hired to be the host of "Truth or Consequences" in 1956. Barker hosted the daytime version of the game show from 1956-65 and the nighttime syndicated version from 1966-74. He began hosting "The Price Is Right" in 1972. His other hosting stints include "The End of the Rainbow" (1958) and "That's My Line" (1980-81). Barker has also served as the master of ceremonies for the Miss Universe and Miss USA pageants. He is a widower.

WHO WAS THE JUDGE? - Who played Andy Hardy's father, the judge, in the Andy Hardy series of movies? Wasn't it one of the Barrymores? - C.P., Honolulu

The Andy Hardy movie series - featuring Mickey Rooney as the ever-enthusiastic titular teen-ager - began with 1937's "A Family Affair," in which Lionel Barrymore portrayed Andy's father. In the subsequent Andy Hardy films, however, the role of Judge Hardy was filled by Lewis Stone.

"COMPANY" BUSINESS - "Three's Company" is my all-time favorite sitcom, and I'm building a scrapbook about the show. How long did it air originally, and how long did its sequel "Three's a Crowd" air? - B.L., Brockville, Ontario, Canada

"Three's Company," which originally starred John Ritter, Joyce DeWitt and Suzanne Somers, aired from March 1977 to September 1984. In the fall of 1984, Jack (Ritter) moved in with his girlfriend, and the sequel "Three's a Crowd" was born. It ran until September 1985. Incidentally, one other series emerged from "Three's Company": "The Ropers" (1979-80) revolved around the roommates' irascible former landlord and his sardonic wife.

Marinero stalks Sellecca in 'Passport to Murder'

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

A light comedy centered on international intrigue starring Connie Sellecca and Ed Marinaro, "Passport to Murder" (NBC, March 7) is several cuts above an episode of "Murder, She Wrote" but a notch or two below the similarly structured Audrey Hepburn/Cary Grant tango "Charade." Sellecca stars as a New York socialite vacationing in ban Rome and Juliet caught between rival gangs. Next up, Best Actor Week, with the film that won Fredric March an Oscar. By far the best version ever of the Robert Louis Stevenson horror classic "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" (March 8), from 1932, also features a remarkable performance by Miriam Hopkins. Then, a legend about a country boy turned World War I hero starring Gary Cooper, "Sergeant York" (March 9), is followed by the biography of another historic great, the noted French scientist as played by Paul Muni in "The Story of Louis Pasteur" (March 10). Burt Lancaster won an Oscar as a corrupt preacher in 1960's "Elmer Gantry" (March 11). Jimmy Stewart, our most celebrated Hollywood star, appears with Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant in one of director George Cukor's best screwball comedies, "The Philadelphia Story," a wildly entertaining tale of Main Line society. Finally, the 1963 film "Lilies of the Field" (March 13) airs, with Oscar winner Sidney Poitier.

A quickly paced, jubilant evocation of 1950s New York as seen through the eyes of two Cuban brothers battling over business and women while taking the mambo dance scene by storm, "The Mambo Kings" (March 7) premieres on HBO. Armand Assante and Antonio Banderas are the talented siblings in a mix of 30s-style musical and MTV video. Snappy musical numbers, colorful characters and the harmonious duet of Assante and Banderas make "The Mambo Kings" an escapist pleasure.

Paris and being trailed by a number of men with questionable motives. Marinero plays one of the stalkers, who may or may not be Sellecca's knight in shining armor, in this corny but strangely charming romantic thriller.

The Movie Channel commemorates the Oscars with three weeks of Academy Award-winning films, actors and actresses. The final installment in last week's Best Director Week is "West Side Story" (March 7), a fast-moving, expertly choreographed, absolutely breathtaking musical that stars Natalie Wood and Richard Beymer as an ur-

SPORTS CALENDAR

Championship Week is the lone shot for some

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

By the time the sun sets in the west Sunday, March 14, the die will have been cast. The NCAA tournament's field of 64 will have been chosen. Regions will have been assigned. Seeds will have been announced. Pairings will have been set. But between now and then, there's a lot of basketball to be played.

And ESPN, bless its hyper-ranked among the nation's top 25 all season long - will receive multiple bids. But for teams in leagues like the Missouri Valley, Patriot and Southland, winning their conference tournament is their only realistic shot at the NCAA's field of 64. For these teams, the NCAA tournament really begins this week.

In addition to the title games from 25 different conference tournaments, Championship Week also features the entire ACC tournament, beginning with the 8-9 game Thursday, all four quarterfinals Friday, both semis Saturday and the final Sunday, March 14.

Here's a look at this week's conference championships: Sunday, Southern, Southland, Mid-Eastern Athletic, Monday, Sun Belt, Metro Atlantic Athletic, Missouri Valley, West Coast, Tuesday, Mid-Continent, Northeast, Wednesday, Patriot, North Atlantic, Thursday, Atlantic 10, Saturday, Mid-American, Midwestern, Great Midwest, Western Athletic, Big Sky, next Sunday, Big Eight, Southeastern, Atlantic Coast, Southwest, Big West, Southwestern Athletic.

In the NBA on NBC Sunday, March 7, Cleveland visits Boston in game one of a doubleheader, and Portland travels to Golden State in the nightcap. TNT has the game of the week on Monday, March 8, however, when Shaquille O'Neal and the Orlando Magic visit Patrick Ewing and the New York Knicks. It is the first meeting between the two teams since the Magic eked out a triple-overtime win at home on Feb. 14.

SOAP SCOOP

'GL' found its Hart, but the news is Buzz

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

After a three-month, six-city casting hunt (with attendant publicity that aped David O. Selznick's hunt for the actress to play Scarlett O'Hara in 1939's "Gone With the Wind"), "Guiding Light" has finally chosen a new Hart Jessup. And it found him right in its soap back yard!

The winner is Leonard Stabb, who played movie direction Hunter Guthrie on "One Life to Live" two years ago. Stabb, despite his fabulous cheekbones, was quite wooden in that role, and it's going to take a lot more than Tab Hunter looks to fill the role of Hart.

Hart is, of course, the innocent farm-boy son of the evil Roger Thorpe (played by Michael Zaslow) and the unknown father of the new baby of Bridget Reardon (played by Melissa Hayden). Jeff Phillips played the role until early last summer. Phillips received a Daytime Emmy nomination as Best Young Actor for his performance, then disappeared without any official explanation from "GL." The big question now is whether Stabb can stand up to Zaslow's and Hayden's forceful portrayals.

But much of Hart's thunder may already have been stolen. We've never seen such an astounding entrance on a soap as that of Justin Deas as Frank ("Buzz") Cooper Sr. recently on "GL." In his first week alone, he not only stole the show - he put it in his pocket and took it home. In his past Daytime Emmy-winning roles (Tom Hughes on "As the World Turns" and Keith Timmons on "Santa Barbara"), Deas has always been quirky, comic and slightly devilish. His Buzz, a longtime Vietnam MIA, seems to be the devil incarnate, with a new element - a swagger that's downright sexy (if you can call belching in public like Homer Simpson sexy).

What a character the writers have created for Deas! Buzz is a slob, a clown, a womanizer and, best of all, a total opportunist. (As Buzz's veteran acquaintance put it, "Buzz is the kind of guy who, if he fell into a river, would come up with a pocketful of fish.")

Within a few days of coming back to his hometown of Springfield, Buzz had the number on practically everyone - including his ex-wife, Nadine (played by Jean Carol), who had been successfully faking a pregnancy for nine months. In two wonderfully comic episodes, he shook her down for $5,000. He has yet to meet up with Frank Jr. (played by Frank DiIopoulis), and his inevitable meeting with Zaslow's Roger should prove to be the main event, soap operawise, this spring.

Child-Resistant Packaging For Mouthwash Sought

Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr., has joined 28 other attorneys general in filing a petition with the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission to require child-resistant packaging for mouthwashes containing more than 5% alcohol.

Mouthwashes are particularly attractive to children because of their sweet smell, bright colors and good taste but Curran warns that most common brands contain high alcohol levels, ranging between 14 and 26 percent. Beer typically contains between 5-7% alcohol, while wine usually contains 12-14% alcohol.

"Children learn many things by watching their parents but they may not realize that when Mom and Dad use mouthwash they spit it out after rinsing," Curran said. "And swallowing as little as one ounce can have serious side-effects for a child."

Somewhat less taste so good that children have been reported as having swallowed as much as 24 ounces. The American Academy of Pediatrics reports that a 22-pound child can be killed by drinking as little as five ounces of mouthwash that contains ethanol.

In a recent five-year period, there were over 10,000 reports nationwide of children under the age of six swallowing mouthwash containing alcohol, according to the American Association of Poison Control Centers. At least three of these incidents resulted in death, one as recently as last year.

Curran recommended that until the CPSC makes a decision on requiring child-resistant packaging for mouthwashes, parents would be well advised to move any mouthwashes containing alcohol in their homes to a place where their child can't reach it.

"These are good products that serve a good purpose in a person's daily hygiene," Curran said. "But mouthwash with alcohol is not harmless if a small child decides to drink it."

The petition delivered today by the attorneys general was also joined by the American Association of Poison Control Centers, the American Academy of Pediatrics and the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

Republican Caucus Proposes Solution To Keno Crisis

Excess funds sloshing around in state agency budgets should produce a surplus of some $82 million in the current fiscal year, a Maryland House Republican Caucus representative stated recently. By contrast, the administration projects an anticipated surplus of only $17.7 million in Fiscal Year 1993.

"While I am sure the agencies can find imaginative ways to soak up their surpluses, it's fairly obvious that Keno was not really needed to balance the budget," said House Minority Leader Ellen R. Sauerbrey (R-Baltimore Co.). "With the surplus funds that control and monitoring should maintain, it would be unconscionable to do another raid on the Transportation Trust Fund as the Governor requests."

Keno, according to a spokesperson for the Board of Revenue Estimates, is expected to bring in $50 million to state coffers in FY 1993, and the governor's budget proposes to transfer $30 million from the Transportation Trust Fund to enhance this year's spending program.

Sauerbrey said that the caucus's own analysis of the budget shows that the Aid for Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program is in surplus primarily because of more effective child support collections; that the General Public Assistance (GPA) program's average grant per recipient was lower than anticipated; and that the caseload of the Medicaid program was grossly overstated, accounting for a $46 million surplus in those three accounts alone.

The Republican Caucus prepared a detailed report recently on the padding of the estate payroll with funded vacant positions in excess of those needed to meet "turnover." The $18.2 million in general fund payroll savings from those vacancies, together with the $46 million detailed above, and the administration's projected $17.7 million surplus, totals $81.9 million.

"A point I can't stress enough is that we have just one analyst looking at the entire state budget," Sauerbrey said. "I'm absolutely certain that there are tens of millions of dollars in excess appropriations that we haven't found yet, because there aren't enough hours in the day."

Sauerbrey added that the GOP Caucus feels strongly that the revenue being generated by Keno is not necessary, and that the existence of that net revenue has removed the pressure that the legislature once felt to address Maryland's long-term budget problems.

"Again this year, we've been presented with a budget that shows normal spending growth exceeding normal revenue growth," Sauerbrey said. "If we stay on this course, we will continue to have a structural deficit. We have to redefine what normal is. And we have to stop this never-ending search for new sources of revenue. The additional dollars provide the kind of wood that fuels unaffordable spending growth."

Don't Be The First!

Imagine a patient being prepared for brain surgery, then hearing the doctor say "this is my first time." What if you enrolled in a high level college course in astro-physics, only to learn that the instructor was a mountain climber from Switzerland?

Experience is important in any field of endeavor. While every surgeon performs a "first" surgery, you would prefer not to be the first. In a classroom learning situation, you would prefer to be taught by someone with an appropriate background.

Why, then, would home buyers consider purchasing from a "by owner"? Better yet, why would an owner attempt to sell without the benefit of professional advice from a qualified real estate agent?

Often, sellers give "saving the commission" as their reason for going it alone. While that may seem to be a logical reason, it is the same one used by buyers who try to purchase "by owner." Realizing that the seller is not paying a brokerage fee, buyers often make low offers. Just imagine the frustration that occurs as both buyers and sellers try to save the same commission.

It is important to understand that a highly trained experienced agent "earns" a fee by creating successful real estate transactions between buyers and sellers. The agent's ability to attract qualified buyers provides sellers with the opportunity to sell at the best price, in the shortest time.

In any given week, an agent comes into contact with attorneys, surveyors, mortgage loan officers, home-owners, taxing officials, and others directly involved in real estate. Daily exposure to the many facets of real estate gives the active agent a depth of experience unmatched by the once-every-five-years "by owner."

When it comes to understanding fee simple title, discount points, legal descriptions, and binding purchase agreements, depend on a real estate specialist, one with the training and experience to make a difference. Whether buying or selling, you can benefit from the services offered by a committed, enthusiastic professional.

Understanding real estate dilemmas and their solutions is our business, and we'll happily share our knowledge with you. Why not give us a call at 387-5303 or drop by our office at McHenry Plaza

STAY ON

WITH A HEALTHY SNACK

As predictable as the conductor's call of "All aboard!" the chorus of "I'm Hungry! What's there to eat?" will be heard in homes across America this fall as youngsters search for snacks at the end of a busy school day.

The return to school often marks a change in schedules for kids and parents alike, including mealtimes. Kids are up early and out of the house with a full day of school, extracurricular activities, homework and playtime with friends. It's no wonder they need a little extra nourishment throughout the day.

During this annual adjustment period, good snack sense is important. Snack sense starts by taking a look at the foods you select for your children. Keep in mind snacks should be planned as part of total food intake and they should provide nutrients growing children need without an excess of fat. Many health organizations recommend low-fat eating for anyone over the age of two. Instead of chips, cookies, candy bars and cupcakes, choose foods that are lower in fat and fiber-rich.

To make after-school snacks convenient as well as nutritious, use the microwave oven. According to home economists at Whirlpool Corporation, the microwave oven makes it possible to cut preparation time for many snacks to a fraction of conventional cooking time.

After-school refreshments should be as easy to clean up as they are to prepare. The use of premium disposable tableware such as Chin[®] allows the ease of microwave cooking with minimal cleanup. These molded paper products are cut-proof and sturdier than any other disposable tableware, making them ideal for a wide variety of microwaveable foods.

Here are some healthy after-school snack ideas that are simple and made ready in just minutes. These recipes make convenient use of Kellogg's[®] Rice Krispies[®], Raisin Bran and Frosted Mini-Wheats[®] cereals as crunchy coatings and extenders. Try the Banana Blueberry Muffins, Fruit 'N Cinnamon Plate Cakes and Crispy Apple Sticks. These nutritious and delicious snacks can be prepared ahead of time by an adult and reheated later by a child in the microwave oven. Or with the help of an adult, school-age children can make these recipes themselves.

I CAN COOK!

Microwave Cooking Tips for Children

Research has shown the microwave oven to be the home appliance most frequently used by children. In fact, according to Whirlpool Corporation home economists, nearly 80 percent of children use the microwave oven—most often for preparing snacks. Before their first solo cooking adventure, parents should teach their children the correct way to use this convenient appliance—a good place to start is by reviewing the owner's manual for specific safety instructions. Here are some simple safety tips to review with kids as an introductory microwave cooking lesson.

- Get permission to use the microwave oven.
- Read the entire recipe or reheating instructions before starting. Ask about anything that you do not understand.
- Decide which microwave cookware to use for different kinds of foods. The recipe usually gives the sizes needed. Molded paper plates and bowls made by Chin[®] are an excellent choice because they do not get hot to the touch and are sturdy.
- Don't use the microwave oven if the door won't shut properly or completely.
- Never operate the microwave oven when it is empty.
- When lifting lids and covers, even plastic wrap or inverted paper plates, always raise away from you to keep steam away from face and eyes. Make holes or steam vents in plastic wrap covers and be sure that you never heat in a sealed container such as a glass jar.
- Use potholders, especially when cooking with glass or plastic microwave cookware. Food and some types of cookware do get hot, even though the oven itself does not.
- Be prepared to adjust cooking or reheating times as needed because many foods continue to cook after removal from the oven. Allow a minute or two of "standing time" before serving.
- Leave the kitchen clean and neat.

| | Vegetable cooking spray |

1. In small bowl, stir together flour, baking powder, salt, the 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and the 1/4 cup sugar. Set aside.

2. Measure cereal into large bowl. Crush slightly. Stir in milk, egg whites and oil. Let stand 5 minutes or until cereal softens. Add flour mixture, stirring until combined. 3. Sprinkle evenly with dried fruit. Stir together remaining sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle evenly over fruit. Microwave each plate cake separately at HIGH (100%) for 1 minute. Rotate plate 1/2 turn. Hospital, Ham Operators Hold Disaster Drill

Garrett County Memorial Hospital, in conjunction with the Garrett County Amateur Radio Emergency Service (GCARES), held a disaster drill Friday, February 5, simulating the failure of the hospital's telephone communication system. The goal of the drill was to establish a formalized process of utilizing GCARES ham radio operators at each nursing station in order to handle internal messaging and links to external support.

Donald Battista, vice president of support services at the hospital stated, "GCARES would offer an invaluable back-up communication link in the event of a failure of our telephone system. In the event of a hardware failure or if a natural disaster were to occur, the Ham Operators would provide a vital radiolink to local support services."

Ken Kenner, a GCARES organizer, added, "The drill gave the radio operators an opportunity to practice their procedures so they will be prepared for a real emergency arises. We appreciate the hospital for having faith in our ability to serve our community in times of crisis."

The drill involved over 50 GCARES and hospital volunteers and included all manner and types of simulated messages from the relaying of doctor's orders to requests for assistance. The hospital had prepared scripts for the evening that included a variety of routine messages generated at each nursing station so the exercise would accurately reflect a typical situation.

W.O.W. PRESENTS TV/VCR. HONORS RANGER - The Potomac-Garrett State Forest was recently presented with a television/video cassette recorder by Lodge 11, Woodmen of the World, Oakland, for use in educational programs at the state forest. Lodge 11 received monies from the Maryland W.O.W. Jurisdiction and then supplemented the purchase with local funds. Pictured left to right above are: Ase McCain, of Lodge 11; Rick Wakefield and Butch Zimmerman, part rangers for the Maryland Forest and Parks Department at Potomac-Garrett State Forest; and Ellen Zimmerman, of Lodge 11. Another presentation by the lodge was made to Clarissa Harris, seasonal naturalist at Potomac-Garrett State Forest, who was recognized for her contribution to Woodmen Ranger Summer Camp. She is pictured below with McCain and Zimmerman, who are Lodge sponsors and co-directors of Maryland W.O.W. Summer Youth Camp. The presentations were made at Lodge 11's recent installation banquet.

Battista thanked GCARES on behalf of the hospital board of governors and medical staff, adding, "GCARES gives the hospital peace of mind knowing we will never be without communication capability, regardless of the situation."

A critique of the drill was performed by the group immediately following the exercise and the results will be documented. A subsequent drill will be scheduled in the future to further refine the process.

Persons desiring more information about GCARES may contact Abe Parys, public relations officer for the organization, at 334-5271.

National School Breakfast Week Is Announced

The Garrett County Board of Education will join school systems across Maryland and the country in celebrating National School Breakfast Week March 8-12.

"School breakfast in Garrett County represents a healthy, convenient, and economical choice for parents - a choice that pays educational dividends to their children every day," said Richard Buckingham, director of food service.

In an effort to educate parents about the benefits of school breakfast, local organizers of the event will invite them to have breakfast with their children during the celebration week. Parents are instructed to notify the appropriate school office of the day they wish to have breakfast at the school. This is necessary for planning how much food to prepare, Buckingham explained.

"The bottom line is this: kids who participate in the school breakfast program learn more and learn better," Buckingham stated. "And they show significant gains in standardized achievement tests."

First United National Member Of Federal Home Loan Bank Of Atlanta

First United National Bank and Trust, headquartered in Oakland, has become a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta. As a member and stockholder, the bank will have access to an additional source of low-cost funds for home financing and will be eligible to use the credit and correspondent banking services of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta.

First United, with assets of $323 million, is one of 14 commercial banks in Maryland that have been approved for membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta. The bank is a federally chartered commercial bank with 15 offices serving western Maryland with an array of financial services, including home mortgages.

Richard G. Stanton, president and chief executive officer of First United, is announcing the decision to become a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank, said, "This new relationship greatly enhances our outreach in the mortgage lending area. It is a valuable resource that adds a new dimension to our ability to serve the community."

Robert E. Showfety, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta, said, "We are pleased to welcome First United as a member and stockholder. We look forward to helping them further develop their competitive home mortgage products, and we are confident their membership will prove to be a wise investment."

The Federal Home Loan Bank System was established in 1932 to offer credit at competitive rates to support economical home financing. Legislation in 1989 expanded eligibility in the system to include commercial banks and credit unions in addition to thrift institutions. This broader scope expanded the home finance resources of the nation's mortgage lenders. To date, more than 1,000 commercial banks have been approved for membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank System nationwide.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta, one of 12 district banks in the Federal Home Loan Bank System, is a $19-billion reserve credit bank that provides low-cost financing and other banking services to its nearly 600 member financial institutions that offer housing finance to consumers in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

Local Educators Visiting Tech Prep Site In S.C.

Five local educators are traveling to South Carolina this week to visit the site of one of the first tech prep projects in the United States.

In Pendleton, S.C., they will have an opportunity to see first-hand how a three-county consortium has developed its program with the county high schools and the Tri-County Technical College.

According to Jim Allen, coordinator of Tech Prep and director of technology at Garrett Community College, who will be leading the group, the Garrett County educators will be in a group of 30 participants at the site.

"We are looking forward to seeing this well-established program," he said, "especially to find out what they have done with curriculum, career development, special populations, and the impact on the community college."

Health Sciences Library Serves Local Students

Health professional students in Western Maryland are receiving free access to the University of Maryland at Baltimore (UMAB) Health Sciences Library through a cooperative project between the university and area health care institutions. Students enrolled in EMAB outreach and off-campus programs in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties may receive information from the Health Sciences Library at no cost to the student. The information is requested through computer networks which link four area health science libraries to UMAB.

This improved accessibility to library resources is the result of a project referred to as AESOP which is Area Education Student Outreach Project. AESOP began this past fall through the collaborative efforts of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) and the UMAB Health Sciences Library. Prior to AESOP, off-campus students had to travel to the library at the Baltimore campus to conduct research, or pay the costs of having articles duplicated and mailed to them. The average turn-around time from request to receipt of material was usually two to three weeks. With AESOP, electronic requests can return information in two to three days, or the same day via a telefacsimile (FAX) machine. The computer network first checks local libraries before sending requests to the UMAB library.

Western Maryland libraries participating in the AESOP project are: Memorial Hospital Library/Media Center, Sacred Heart Hospital, St. Martha Malloy Library, St. John County Hospital, Wroth Memorial Library, and Western Maryland AHEC Learning Resource Center.

Students benefiting from AESOP are enrolled in the baccalaureate and master's level UMAB Nursing Outreach Programs in Cumberland and Hagerstown and in the UMAB Western Maryland master's in social work program. These programs provide opportunities for area health professionals to continue with their established careers and, at the same time, to further their education close to home. The Western Maryland AHEC in Cumberland serves as the home base for the on-site coordinators of UMAB's nursing and social work off-campus in Western Maryland.

Linking libraries through AESOP also benefits UMAB medical and allied health professional students who are participating in the Clinical Education Program at the Western Maryland AHEC. Clinical education students are placed under the supervision of one or more Western Maryland health care practitioners, called preceptors, in hospitals, nursing homes, pharmacies, clinics, physician and dental offices, and other health care facilities. Having the ability to obtain the latest biomedical information enhances student learning about disease, prevention, treatment and patient care.

"Free access to the UMAB Health Sciences Library supports the educational training of these students and demonstrates the ability of computer networks to provide health information quickly and easily," stated an AHEC spokesman.

For further information, persons may contact Kathleen Lese, D. Michele Beaulieu, or Clair Meissner at the Western Maryland AHEC, 301-777-9150.

Curran Attacks Out-Of-State Solicitations

The Consumer Protection Division in the office of Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr., has approved a consent order under which a Nevada corporation that sponsors prize contests will permanently discontinue sending Maryland residents deceptive solicitations that violate Maryland law and will make restitution to all Marylanders who seek refunds.

According to Curran, Honeywell & Roberts, Inc. agreed to stop sending into Maryland solicitations that violate the Consumer Protection Act, including mailings that create the false impression that consumers have won a valuable prize and that require consumers to pay money in order to receive the prize.

The Consumer Protection Division alleged in its Statement of Charges that the company represented to consumers they were a "GUARANTEED WINNER" of a prize of $50 to $10,000 and that they need only pay a small fee and check the answer to a simple question, such as "Which of the following is not a flower? Carnation/Daisy/Sparrow/Rose." In fact, the only "prize" consumers were guaranteed to receive was some discount coupons or allegedly little or no value.

Honeywell & Roberts admits that some of the mailings it sent to Maryland prior to the Division's December 14, 1992 cease and desist order "could have the capacity to mislead consumers to believe that they would win a cash prize if they correctly answered a simple multiple choice question when, in fact, answering the question correctly did not guarantee that they would win..." according to the Division's order.

"Under Maryland law you cannot be required to pay any money to win a prize," Curran said. "And when a company tells you to send in $5 and leads you to believe you will win $500 or more, this is an offer that's too good to be true. If an offer looks too good to be true, it no doubt is, and you should avoid it."

Within 10 days of the order, the company must pay $16,175.00 into a general restitution account that will be used to refund money to consumers. Honeywell & Roberts agreed to replenish this account if needed. The order also requires Honeywell & Roberts, for a period of four years, to provide the Consumer Protection Division advance copies of all mailings it intends to send Maryland residents.

This action was initially brought under a new provision of the Consumer Protection Act Authorizing the Division to issue a cease and desist order without a hearing in cases where victims of unfair and deceptive trade practices may not be able to get refunds. While such an order is effective immediately under this law, a company may request a hearing within 30 days. If no hearing is requested, the order becomes final at the end of 30 days.

Consumers who paid money to Honeywell & Roberts and who seek refunds should call the Consumer Protection Division's hotline (410-528-8662).

Next Community Lenten Service At Oak Park

Feld's text for the sermon will be the words, "I am the bread of life" (St. John 8:12).

On the following Wednesday evening, March 17, the service will be held at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland. Guest preacher for that service will be the Rev. Paul Stauffer, pastor of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren.

Julia Tichnell, Michael Heideman Married In August 23 Ceremony

Julia Dawn Tichnell and Michael Edward Heideman were united in marriage August 23, 1992, at the White United Methodist Church, White Church-Steyer Road, Oakland, with the Rev. Kenneth Montgomery officiating. Lela Paugh, Mtn. Lake Park, was organist. Soloists were Carolyn Helbig, friend of the bride; and Judy Gordon, aunt of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Larry Tichnell, Oakland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Heideman, Weippe, Idaho.

The mothers lighted side candles for family unity and the bride and groom lighted the unity candle. The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father. Mothers were presented with red roses.

The bride chose a formal gown of satin, featuring a Sabrina neckline and fitted princess bodice embellished with heavily beaded lace and sequins. The long sleeves, with a shoulder pouf, were accented with beaded lace appliques. Cascading back bows and hand-beaded appliques highlighted the semi-cathedral train, and the entire skirt was etched with a deep, lace hem. Her veil fell elbow-length from a rose and sequin headpiece made by the bride and her mother. She carried a cascading white, blue, and pink rose bouquet, accented with hearts, streamers and pearls. Serving as matron of honor was Lori Dodge Tichnell, sister-in-law of the bride, who wore a blue and white tea-length dress and carried a matching bouquet. Bridesmaids were Missy Tasker Schrock and Elaine DeBerry, friends of the bride, who wore pink and white tea-length dresses and carried matching bouquets.

The flower girl was Sarah Knox, Oakland, friend of the bride. She wore a satin dress trimmed with bows that matched the bride's gown. Her dress was made by her mother, Lois Knox.

Tina Marsan, sister of the groom, attended the guest book. Crystal Gordon was in charge of thank you notes. Birdseed packets were distributed by Cassie and Brandi Nice, cousins of the bride.

Best man was Mike Clark, Lewiston, Idaho, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Tim Gordon, shipmate of the groom and cousin of the bride; and Randy Tichnell, brother of the bride. Ushers were Mike Tichnell, brother of the bride; and Tom Dodge, friend of the bride and groom. Ringbearer was Eric Tichnell, cousin of the bride. Train usher was Bradley Lilly, cousin of the bride. The wedding was videotaped by Mike Tichnell, Gary Tichnell, and Lois Knox.

The photographer was Judy Wilt.

The reception was held at the White Church Community Building following the wedding. The three-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by the bride's mother, Janet Tichnell, was set atop a water fountain and had a bride top, two side staircases, and two side cakes each. The staircases were trimmed with bride and groom courts and decorated with white, blue, and pink roses, highlighted with streamers and pearls.

The cake was served by Judy Gordon and Linda Tichnell, aunts of the bride. Punch was served by Carrie Leonard, Bellaire, Ohio; and Salena White, friends of the bride; and Evelyn Wildesen and Janet Mae Tichnell, grandmothers of the bride. Others helping with food preparations were Joan Nice, Kathy Lilly, Jeanie Heideman, Tina Marsan, Vicci Clark, and Katie Tichnell. Special cookies were made by Brenda Jenkins.

All flowers, bouquets, and arrangements were completed by the bride and her mother.

A surprise bridal shower was given by the bride's court and family prior to the wedding. The rehearsal dinner was held in the bride's home.

Following the reception, the couple departed for a honeymoon trip to Walt Disney World, Epcot Center, and Universal Studios in Florida.

The couple now resides in the White Church Community, Oakland.

Guests were from Maryland, Idaho, California, Ohio, and West Virginia.

is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, Mtn. Lake Park.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in an ivory lace gown trimmed with ribbon sequins. Her fingertip veil fell from a rose and pearl spray. She carried a cascade of pink and white silk roses, mums, and lilies.

Serving as matron of honor was Mary Lynn Garrett, sister of the bride. Bridesmaid was Cathy Beckman, sister of the bride. They wore black, floral street-length dresses and carried white lace fans.

Flower girl was Stephanie Garrett, niece of bride. She wore a black velvet dress trimmed with white lace and carried a basket of pink and white silk flowers. Guests were registered by Marge Uphold.

Serving as best man was Rodger Uphold, uncle of the groom. Guests were ushered by William Kimble, brother of the bride.

All the flowers were designed by Leota Martin.

A reception was held in the Crellin Community Building. The hall was decorated with pink and white streamers and white bells. The tiered cake, decorated with pink flowers, was baked and served by Leota Martin. Punch was served by Mary Kimble, mother of the bride. The couple set up residence in Mtn. Lake Park.

World Day Of Prayer Service Set For Friday

World Day of Prayer, an international day of worship celebrated by millions of Christian women in some 170 nations, will be observed locally this Friday, Mar. 5, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident.

The theme of the event this year is "People of God: Instruments of Healing." Registration will get underway at 12:30 p.m. and the service will begin at 1 p.m.

Worship materials for the service, which were written by women of Guatemala, raise concerns for poverty and usury in that nation, and how these conditions are linked to political and social realities there.

World Day of Prayer was started in 1987 by Presbyterian lay woman, Mary Ellen James, as a day of prayer for home missions.

All are invited to attend the service at St. Paul's Church. Members of the planning committee include: Helen Silber, Helen Keller, Charlotte Mousch, Evelyn Steyer, Hazel Margroff, and Betty Foy.
